“For too long the faith community has sat passively in the background and let government agencies or disaster relief groups attempt to do what only the church is capable and called to do! It’s time we take our place in crisis intervention and relief through highly trained and credentialed Crisis Teams coming from our local congregations,” says Dr. Michael K. Haynes. “We cannot wait! We must be trained and prepared to help victims deal with all of the above life situations –

Thursday January 23 will be a full day of Practical Chaplaincy. The dynamics of this training deals with things and events that, as a Chaplain, you will encounter and do! This training shows how Crisis Chaplaincy works, and how to handle what you will without doubt experience.

Friday January 24 will be another full day of Crisis Chaplaincy Training. At the end of these days you will receive a State Recognized certification as a Crisis Chaplain. There are no prerequisites to attend these courses. You only need a heart for the hurting and a willingness to leave the pew of your local church and enter into the spiritual care component of crisis intervention.

THE NEED IS GREAT! THE DOOR IS OPEN! GOD IS CALLING!
